

PHI CHI THETA

NATIONAL COED PROFESSIONAL FRATERNITY FOR BUSINESS & ECONOMICS

---

To Whom It May Concern,

October 9, 2009

As President of a Professional Coed Business and Economics Fraternity, Phi Chi Theta, at the University of Maryland, College Park, I was happy with Ms. Huhman's presentation to my group. With ages ranging from 18-22, or from just starting college to about to graduate, her presentation on how to market oneself as you apply for jobs and internships was completely applicable for everyone present. We were happy to see a speaker address advancements in the career world, such as social networking sites, and give us insights on how to maintain professionalism on such sites while using them to our advantage.

Furthermore, her insights into the application and interview process of job search were even further reinforced by her question and answer session. Our group had so many questions for her, after realizing that she was a great asset to receive answers from, that we eventually had to cut off questions as we ran out of time! I was impressed with the depth of knowledge she held on each questions posed and was even happier that the group responded so well as to have many questions.

As a Professional group that is based on Professional development, Phi Chi Theta gets many speakers in each semester. With the variety of thoughts and pressures flowing through college students' brains, it is often hard for them to focus on speakers whom they expect to receive little benefit from. However, my group clearly saw available benefits from Ms. Huhman's presentation as evidenced in their enthusiasm for questions and answers.

Sincerely,
